Glendale Tech Week 2024 to Provide Region's Tech Community the Opportunity to Learn, Network and Celebrate

Glendale, CA - The City of Glendale in collaboration with multiple partners will hold its annual Glendale Tech Week from September 17 through 19. One of the region's signature gatherings for the tech community, Glendale Tech Week brings together innovators and entrepreneurs, startups and executives, angel investors and venture capitalists for a series of workshops, panels, job fairs, and highly curated events.

"Glendale Tech Week has emerged as a powerhouse regional event for innovation since its launch in 2016. The strong partnership between our city and local tech leaders is what makes this event so successful and stands as a testament to our collective commitment to fostering growth and shaping the future of technology," said Glendale Mayor Elen Asatryan.

"When the city adopted its tech initiative, it was intended to be a roadmap to develop a tech and innovation ecosystem in our city. It is rewarding to see how far we've now come in realizing that vision," added Glendale Director of Community Development Bradley Calvert.

Held throughout the city, Glendale Tech Week 2024 is filled with critical education and networking events, including its signature Demo Day Pitchfest, and ways to gain exposure:

Glendale is quickly becoming recognized as a core part of the Southern California innovation ecosystem through an entire dedicated program that supports tech growth including networking events such as Tech on Tap, Investors on Tap, and others, inter-city collaboration through initiatives such as Upstart Valley and #EarlyStageLA, and partnerships with innovation ecosystem drivers.

Demonstrating that success, Glendale is home to many technology-based companies including three unicorns, LegalZoom, Age of Learning and ServiceTitan. The city's close proximity to major film studios like Disney and DreamWorks, along with renowned educational institutions such as Caltech, the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, and Glendale Community College, provide it with a significant competitive advantage.
